

ASKS LIFE TERMS FOR BOY KILLERS

DARROW'S PLEA IS TO SPARE
THEM FROM NOOSE

DEFENSE ATTORNEY'S
PLEA DRAMATIC EFFORT

No Good Could Come of Hanging
"Immature Boys, Not Masters of Own Minds"—State's Experts Are Played.

Chicago.—The burden of the plea of Clarence Darrow, before Judge John R. Caverly, was for mercy and life sentences for Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb.

He painted the intellectual young slayers not as the master criminals that the state calls them, but as immature boys, their schemes diseased schemes, fool schemes, crazy schemes, idiot schemes. He showed how, instead of covering up their footsteps in the Franks crime, they took terrible chances of being discovered by any chance accident or whim of fate.

It was queer, Darrow said, to have to ask for mercy—the kind of mercy that consists only of putting Loeb and Leopold away from the world for the rest of their lives, "with nothing to look forward to but hospital guards and gray stone walls, month after month, day after day."

Without all the public clamoring for vengeance, without the vindictiveness of the state's attorney's office, he declared, there would have been no question but that Judge Caverly, or any other judge, would have taken their plea of guilty and sentenced them to an institution, without any trial.

Whenever he mentioned the name of Dr. Krohn he spat; he made a wry face. "Here we have the case of a boy bent on killing," he said, indicated Leopold and Loeb with a movement of his right shoulder, "not knowing whom he wants to kill, but trailing somebody."

"And Dr. Krohn—for sixteen years he has not been a doctor, but he has used his doctor's license going in and out of this building, trailing victims without regard to age or sex—peddling perjury. Hanging boys. And his motive was cash."

RIVER OF MUD AGAIN MOVING DOWN MUD CREEK CANYON

McCloud.—Mount Shasta's river of mud is again increased in volume and pouring down Mud creek canyon, depositing boulders many tons in weight on the sandy plains surrounding this small lumber center. A new channel cut by the flow has completely obliterated the forest service's road to the former government nursery for 200 yards. On the more chilly nights the flow almost ceases, only to break forth when the sun's rays strike the McCloud glacier.

At one time the stream turned in the direction of McCloud and, had it not been for the hasty erection of a brush and log dam by a crew of lumber workers, probably would have covered the streets and yards of the town.

FLOOD IN ILLINOIS SWEEPS WIDE PATH—TOWN ABANDONED

Peoria.—The greatest flood in the history of Spoon river valley which tore through Fulton county, wrecked nearly every bridge in its path, destroyed farm buildings, drowned livestock and devastated thousands of acres. Flood waters were nine feet higher than any in history, and threatened to sweep away the last remaining railroad and wagon bridge connecting this city with Galesburg and points west, near Seville. Hundreds of farmers forewarned of the water sweeping down the valley fled to the hills with their household effects, many of them in rowboats. Bernadotte, a village on the river near Canton, was abandoned by residents.

Asks $56,000 in Seizure Suit
San Francisco.—Resulting from the government's seizure of the sealing schooner Mattie T. Dyer on April 24, 1920, the administrator of the estate of Charles E. Mockler, one-time owner of the ship, has filed suit in the federal court asking $56,000 from the government. Subsequent to seizure, the Hague tribunal declared that the government could not interfere with sealing ships because of their entry into sealing waters.

Abandon Suicide Inquiry
Omaha.—Local officials will hold no further investigation of the death of Miss Catherine Ford of Santa Barbara, Cal., who leaped eight stories to her death from the Fontelle hotel here, and Miss Rosa Cavalleri, the nurse who was taking her from Santa Barbara to Independence, Iowa, was released from temporary detention.

STATE PRESS DAY WILL OPEN FAIR

NEWSPAPER MEN AND CHILDREN WILL RULE INAUGURATION

HORSE SHOW WILL OFFSET
LOSS OF CATTLE EXHIBIT

Directors Predict Finest Equestrian
Exposition Ever Seen on Pacific Coast—San Joaquin Fair Makes Attendance Record.

Sacramento.—Although there will be no cattle at the fair this year, due to the foot and mouth disease, there will be plenty of other attractions to make up for the loss of the stock. The horse show, which will be held at night, has been given unusual attention by the directors, who predict the show will be one of the finest ever witnessed on the Pacific coast. The horse show has improved and grown yearly until it is now one of the most popular and best attractions of the fair and it brings to the state the best horseflesh in the west.

The first day of the fair, August 30, will be California Press association day and children's day. Governor Friend W. Richardson, president of the press association for more than twenty years, will be on hand to open the fair and to preside at a dinner to be given the editors.

The program for the fair teems with activity and is in line with the slogan of the directors, "Something doing every minute."

Stockton.—After breaking all attendance records the San Joaquin county fair went out in a blaze of glory which will be a guiding beacon to similar events here for years to come. The horse show in itself attracted enough people to this year's event to assure wide advertising for future fairs, enough to make this year's event historical.

The racing card each afternoon also attracted wide attention, and judging from the enthusiasm shown, racing is a favorite sport in this city.

EFFORTS TO CANCEL ALLIES' WAR DEBTS ARE FEARED

New York.—Acceptance of the Dawes plan, followed shortly by a renewed drive in this country aimed at cancellation of the allies' debts to the United States, was predicted by Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation bank of New York, who sailed as American Federation of Labor's delegate to the British Trades' Union congress at Hull, England. American labor would vigorously oppose any such wholesale cancellation of debts, declared Brady, and asserted that American labor would refrain from participating in any plan for financing European nations "until such nations show an inclination to practice peace, as well as preach it—until they cease appropriating huge sums for war machinery and begin removing incentives for new wars."

Brady said his mission was undertaken, partly, to determine whether financial institutions of labor in America should adopt a policy of participating in the Dawes plan for financing nations concerned with the reparations agreement.

BIGAMOUS COUPLE MUST FACE PROSECUTION TOGETHER

San Rafael.—Marius A. Miller and Mrs. Delphine Schuller, the bigamous couple who startled the town by marrying while Miller's real life lay dying, and then by skipping away to the state of Washington, where they were caught, must both face prosecution. This was decided upon by Marin authorities, and an additional warrant was sworn to charging Mrs. Schuller, the runaway wife No. 2 of Miller, with bigamy. At the time of the bigamous marriage of Miller and Mrs. Schuller, nurse employed to care for the dying wife of Miller, the man only was arrested and charged with bigamy.

At Oakland, H. G. Schuller, grandfather of Mrs. Schuller's 3-month-old son, has stepped into the case and will take the child from the mother. "She does not care for the baby," says Schuller. "Even before the child was born she talked of having it adopted."

Sleeping Child Killed
Modesto.—Hurled from the rear seat of a touring car, where she lay asleep, Vera Grace Burden, 8-year-old daughter of William E. Burden, cashier of the First National bank at Sonora, received a fractured skull from which she died in a Modesto hospital. The accident occurred three miles west of Oakdale, when the car momentarily left the pavement and swerved sharply, throwing the girl through the side curtains.

Golden State News of Interest to All

Although the last mountain sheep seen on Mount Shasta was in 1872, it is believed that the sheep, whose carcass was discovered by a party of mountaineers from McCloud recently, frozen in a huge block of ice which had been piled loose from the rest of the glacier by the sun's rays, must have been roaming about Mount Shasta long prior to that date. The mud flow, occasioned when the glacier started slipping and which menaced the town of McCloud for several days, subsided when an ice cap was formed by the recent snow and cold weather and unless an extreme hot spell again visits this section the glacier is expected to remain stationary.

Prospects of early payment of more than $5,000,000 by German and Austrian insurance companies have cheered many San Francisco property owners, losers in the fire of 1906. The amounts of the policies, with interest for eighteen years, are expected soon to be paid, as one of the outcroppings of the war, when $25,000,000 in securities belonging to German and Austrian companies were seized by the alien property custodian. Dispute as to the return of the securities after the declaration of peace was finally settled by a treaty, through which the mixed claims commission was created to adjust the fire claims in full.

The largest dam in the state, 4,200 feet long, 320 feet high and containing 1,500,000 cubic yards of concrete, with storage space of 600,000 acre-feet of water, will be constructed one mile from Friant within the year. The lake will be eighteen miles long, three miles wide and 300 feet deep, creating 65,000 hydro-electric horsepower. This will irrigate Madera county, with some lands in Fresno, Merced and Stanislaus counties; total acreage, 653,000.

The Don Pedro dam, sending water into irrigation ditches in the Modesto-Turlock region, netted the farmers $20,000 more this season than they would have received under the former system. The success of this dam has stimulated other counties and three projects are now under way in San Joaquin valley, which will duplicate Don Pedro and in two cases irrigate double the area now under that system.

The Sutter county chamber of commerce has drafted a message to President Coolidge protesting against the efforts to bring about a reduction of tariff on sugar. It is contended that such a move would cripple the sugar beet industry in California, putting the growers into direct competition with countries where sugar is produced with cheap labor.

Miss Catherine Ford, 51, of Santa Barbara, was killed when she jumped from the window of the room on the eighth floor of the Fontanelle hotel at Omaha, occupied by herself and nurse. Miss Ford, according to the nurse, had been in a private hospital at Santa Barbara for several months and was en route to Independence, Iowa, to visit a brother.

Proposed changes in the tariff on sugar would necessitate the closing of sugar refineries at Tracy and Manteca, which were recently opened after having been closed for five years, says a protest sent from those towns to President Coolidge.

The death of Mrs. Martha E. Parkhurst, a resident of Pacific Grove for twenty-seven years, marked the going of another of the pioneers who crossed the plains in '49. She came from Iowa with her father when 7 years of age.

Five Santa Barbara county schools were unable to open on schedule because of lack of teachers. The schools are Jamala, Olive, Orella, Chiquero and Purisimo. All are situated on large ranches and have but one teacher.

H. B. Walneley, of Acampo, has applied to the governor for the position of state squirrel commissioner. He explains that he is an expert rodent exterminator. The letter was forwarded to the department of agriculture.

The Los Angeles Midway Pipe Line company, capitalization $5,000,000, has been incorporated and plans to construct a pipe line 140 miles in length from Kern City, in the Elk Hills district, to Los Angeles.

A special tax of $5,000 was voted at Rio Linda for the improvement of the school during the coming year. The growth of the school last year necessitated the additional funds before the opening of the term.

Six airplanes under command of Lieutenant Oakley Kelley, who made the first non-stop trans-continental flight with Lieutenant John McReady, landed recently at the Redding field on the way to Oregon.

The Southern Pacific is planning a new station for San Mateo. An office and warehouse will be arranged for the American Express company.

ARTHUR FREE RE-ELECTED CONGRESSMAN

HAWKEYES TO PICNIC

The Iowa State Society annual picnic will be held this year at Alum Rock park, Monday, September 1 Labor Day. All Hawkeyes living in or near Santa Clara valley are cordially invited. Basket dinner with coffee, county registers, postal views of Santa Clara valley etc., will be in evidence. The speaker of the day will be Fred L. Thomas, deputy district attorney. For further information see B. S. Turner, president, Mrs. Etta Tate, secretary, or Mrs. A. N. Southwick, San Jose Chamber of Commerce.

Stickney and Reynolds and H. S. Tregoning of Ukiah, have sold their wool crop to a San Francisco firm. Most of the sheepmen on the coast have sold their marketable lambs.

The World Peace society of San Francisco has purchased 3,000 acres of land near Riverside to be the site of the proposed "Peace City," to be devoted to the cause of world peace.

Dr. Jessica Peixotto of the University of California, has been appointed to the advisory committee of the foreign language information service headquarters in New York city.

John Lewis Estes, prominent Anderson valley man, died at Ukiah at the age of 75. He served during the Indian wars and was a resident of Mendocino county for more than fifty years.

The Pythian home at Los Guillicos valley recently held a canning bee, members of the Pythian sisters participating. The fruit is to be stored in the home for aged knights of the order.

The "Whiskerinos" have been requested to keep their beards until after the meeting of the American mining congress in Sacramento, September 29, to give the old '49 atmosphere to the affair.

Conservation methods put into effect by the up-valley ranchers around Sacramento have resulted in a marked increase in the amount of water flowing into the Sacramento river. Measurements show an increase of 325 cubic feet per second.

Deer in Modoc county are dying from a mysterious malady, four having been found dead in the lava beds of Hog lake. An expert in animal diseases from the University of California went to Alturas to determine the cause of the deaths.

The Nevada quarantine against California stock because of the hoof and mouth disease will not be removed, September 1. Nevada will keep men on guard until the federal authorities declare the disease wholly stamped out in California.

Total production of crude oil for California in July, 1924, was 19,274,750 barrels. Total stocks at the end of the month were 101,466,225 barrels. Increase in stock, 888,379 barrels. One hundred and thirty-seven wells were completed with daily production of 55,975 barrels.

The work of restoring the old bank and express office of the famous mining town of Timbuctoo, through which millions of dollars worth of gold passed in pioneer days, is to begin shortly. The work is being undertaken by the native sons and daughters of Marysville.

FREE, YOUNG WIN AT PRIMARIES

Election day passed over very quietly in Campbell precincts. The busy season combined with many absentees away on vacations combined to reduce the number of votes. The tally for the three precincts gave Free and Young the higher majority in each precinct.

precincts	1	2	3
Free	34	77	44
Van Dellen	19	24	18
Young	25	41	28
Millard	16	30	13
Rodgers	9	30	23

According to late returns yesterday, Congressman Arthur Free has been re-elected by a considerable margin. Seventy-five percent of the precincts of the eighth congressional district give Free 17,940, Van Dellen 13,494. Fred Millard has conceded the election of Sanborn Young to the state senate.

GRANGE HEARS INTERESTING TALKS

In spite of the busy times among the fruit growers there was a good attendance at the Grange Tuesday evening.

Mr. Knack read a valuable paper on shipping fruit. Too much fruit is shipped in a green stage and never becomes fit to eat. Such shipments may pay at first, but as soon as it becomes known that the fruit is not good it is an injury to the whole fruit business.

Mr. Couk gave a good talk on excuses—saying we all make excuses for everything that goes wrong—but that it was a poor policy. When things don't turn out right, make no excuse for the real fault is usually in ourselves.

Under the trend of education, Mr. H. G. Keesling read several articles from the National Grange Monthly, Current Opinion and the Rural New Yorker. Habits of industry were of the first importance. Every child should be taught habits of industry, otherwise they are sure to grow into habits of idleness, which are very apt to lead to mischief and crime in later life.

Mrs. Couk made some forceful remarks on equal rights, mentioning the case of American women who lost their right to vote by marrying a foreigner when a man would not lose his right under similar circumstances. A law has been enacted making her a legal citizen, but the law has not been retracted and still deprives those of their vote who were thus married before the law was made and there is work to do yet before women will have full equal right.

Miss Stoltie gave two recitations in her usual fine style, to the enjoyment of all.

Mr. Bohnett gave a short and interesting talk on his recent trip east. In many places there was so much rain early in the season that farmers were a month behind in getting their corn planted. But the hay crop was immense, and as the season advanced the weather improved, and most all other crops were very promising. When he saw the great quantity of water going to waste, he wished there was some way of scooting it over the great divide to water the rich lands where only sage brush now grows; but thought we must first conserve our own winter floods before looking for help from heaven.

Pegler-Houser

The Methodist parsonage was the scene of a wedding Sunday afternoon, when Rev. F. C. Farr united in marriage Hollisfield Matthew Houser and Miss Lucy Chasie Pegler of Santa Rita, New Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dresser, of Dos Palos who are here for the summer, acted as attendants for the bridal couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dresser and the newly married couple have rooms in the Dewey Apartments above Miller's Store.

ZEROLENE

Zerolene "F" for Fords, the Standard Oil Company's new oil for Ford cars, was for the first time drawn from the pumps at garages and at Standard Oil Company Service Stations and offered to the public about the middle of last December.

The response of the motoring public was immediate and overwhelming. Today Zerolene "F" for Fords is the most popular oil on the market for Ford lubrication.

Lubricates Better—Costs Less

The verdict of users verifies the claims of our Research Engineers—that Zerolene "F" for Fords meets the special requirements of the Ford lubricating system better than any other oil.

Yet it costs not more but less than any of the special Ford oils on the market.

A Longer Life for Your Ford

We believe that Zerolene "F" for Fords will increase gasoline mileage, reduce carbon removal operations, and lengthen the working life of every Ford in which it is used.

A Ford is an A-1 transportation investment. Protect your investment by proper lubrication.

SPEECHES THAT ARE TOO LENGTHY

The speaker who says he doesn't intend to make a speech then inflicts his eloquence, or a lamentable lack of that quality, on a tiring audience for thirty minutes or more despite an hour that is late and a program that is behind in schedule, is still one of the trials of modern existence. Like the poor, he will probably be always with us.

The Sermon on the Mount didn't take nearly as long in deliverance as some after-dinner speaker will take to say, "I am glad to be with you on this occasion" and a few more thousand words which mean precisely the same thing. The more the audience shuffles in its seat with oppression the more the speaker warms to his task. There are some speakers, like some singers, one would like to listen to for any length of time but they appear only once in a while.

It is a common error in public events to make a program so long that it is arduous, and that it is a delightful entertainment for two hours, becomes a positive trial by the time the third hour is past and every minute thereafter is a torture. Brevity continues to constitute the soul of wit, despite the assault made upon it.

CITIZENSHIP

An alien does not change into a citizen overnight. The changing of his dress may be done in an hour. The changing of his speech is a longer process. And the changing of his ideas is still longer.

Really, to become a citizen of our country, a man must first turn his mind from the old land to the new; he must desire to be an American. In the second place he must learn how American institutions have grown and how they are carried on; he must understand what are a citizen's responsibility in this land.

THE LAW'S DILEMMA

No right thinking American could take offense at the present agitation for fewer laws and more enforcement of the laws we have. The more laws enacted the more confusing becomes the mind of the people; but the greater problem is to keep up the machinery of enforcement and keep the wheels of justice moving efficiently.

An eminent lawyer recently made the statement that the laws of our state and federal governments have become so numerous and complicated that instead of serving their primary purposes, namely, to make plain the rights and duties of social and commercial relations; they have defeated such ends in many instances.

The purpose of law is to simplify matters of government and to clearly define the rights of persons and property. With new laws in vast numbers with over three hundred new decisions by courts of last resorts every day in the United States, it would seem that a few laws to render clear the laws we already have might be a worthy object of our legislators.

Oriental Have Odd Belief About Foxes

Foxes have a terrifying effect on the imaginations of superstitious Orientals. A fox will enter a human's body—between the fingernails and the skin, they say—and, having made himself at home, will control the person's thought, actions and even his voice, leading him into devilries for which he feels he cannot be held responsible. To thus be controlled by a fox—or rather by the spirit of a fox—is to suffer from what is recognized as demoniacal possession.

We are told, says the Detroit News, that "the person possessed hears and understands everything that the fox inside him says or thinks; and that the two often engage in violent dispute, the fox speaking in a voice altogether different from that which is natural to the individual." Scientifically, we have it explained that "whereas in healthy persons one-half of the brain alone is actively engaged—in right-handed persons the left half of the brain and in left-handed persons the right—in nervously excitable persons or in persons of weak mind the disused half of the brain is often aroused into activity by fear, and that the two halves, now functioning—one the normal self and the other the new pathologically affected self—are set one against the other, the result being that the activities of the 'new' brain are ascribed to the fox."

Odd Experience

This experience occurred many years ago, but it was so odd that I have never forgotten it. I was visiting friends in the country who had a Shetland pony that I loved to ride. I wore my hair in two braids, which were crossed and tied up in the back, making a little loop, as was the fashion of the time. One day while riding the pony through the orchard, he became frightened and started running toward the barn. Under a low-growing apple tree he ran pell-mell, leaving me hanging by my braids on the apple bough! My feet just missed the ground, and there I hung like Absalom until the other children came and released me.—Chicago Journal.

Diamond's Composition

"One of the most simple and beautiful crystals is the diamond. It consists," says Dr. William Bragg, "only of carbon atoms arranged in a very symmetrical way. Every carbon atom has four others spaced round it. The symmetry of the structure is such that the atoms are most difficult to displace, for which reason a diamond can be used as a tool to cut any other substance, because the atoms of the other substance give way before the rigidly set atoms of the diamond. In the diamond can be found the rings of benzene, the fundamental structural unit of all the substances included in one great section of organic chemistry."

But, Surely It Wasn't

The kindergarten had been studying the wind all week—its power, effects, etc.—until the subject had been pretty well exhausted.

To stimulate interest, the teacher said, in her most enthusiastic manner: "Children, we were going to Baton Rouge to witness the game yesterday. As the train approached one of the stations something came softly and kissed me on the cheek. What do you think it was?"

A pretty girl in the rear shouted: "I know! It was the conductor, because when he took my ticket, he told me I was a very pretty girl and kissed me, too."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Insure those Prunes

It costs just a little to insure against fire. You'll probably have them in the barn or on the place a short time until sold. Suppose a fire occurs and you lose the whole lot?
